BRAIN, MIND and IMAGINATION: How each of us creates a world of our own Thomas Czerner
If you read only one book about the brain, it should be this one. Dr. Czerner translates the discoveries of dozens of world-renowned authorities into a page-turning story about the mystery of consciousness and the awesome power of the human imagination. We imagine everything we know and feel - even the objects right in front of us. Neuroscience is warning us that the old adage, "seeing is believing," is dangerously misleading. We each see a world that is molded by our past experience, our prejudices and the stories told by those we trust and love. This book deals with what may be the most important topic of our time. Our future hinges on the world we imagine for ourselves. Brain researchers are exploring how each of us builds that world anew.
